

What can you do if you are concerned about your child's progress in school?

If you are concerned about your child's progress or the level they are working at, please speak to their class teacher – you may like to book an appointment with them so they aren't rushed.

The class teacher will reflect on what you have said and may discuss anything relevant with other staff – perhaps the previous class teacher, a subject specialist or the Sendco.

The class teacher may make a support plan to achieve these 'desired outcomes'. It may be setting some targets or looking at an intervention.

The class teacher and Sendco may explore other interventions and put your child on 'SEN support'.

At this stage the Sendco and class teacher may consider involving external agencies for additional support and guidance. A pre consultation needs to be held in order to make a referral.

Who can help?

At the moment there are a range of professionals that we can make referrals to including: occupational therapists, speech and language therapists, CAMHS (child and adolescent mental health services), educational psychologists, community paediatricians, GPs, dieticians and the hearing and visually impaired teams. Each service has its own criteria for accepting referrals which the school has to follow.

At each stage, the class teacher will share findings with you keep you informed.
